

Important Sales Update for Stainless Steel Customers

Allegion is currently in the process of transitioning our sales operations for stainless steel products to Next Door Company, our stainless steel door and frame manufacturer, and away from Republic and Steelcraft.

By going directly to the manufacturer, our new process is designed to simplify the sales process and save you time.

Going forward, we ask you to reach out directly to Next Door Company for all NEW sales inquiries, estimates, and purchase orders (POs) for hollow metal stainless steel products, including:

- Stainless steel doors
- Oversized doors
- Stainless steel frames
- Custom configurations
- Wicket doors

Please note: Starting March 1, 2026, Republic and Steelcraft will no longer be handling any NEW sales-related inquiries, estimates, or orders for stainless steel products.

Notice About Open Orders and Quotes with Republic or Steelcraft

Rest assured, if you have an open order placed with Republic or Steelcraft, it will be fulfilled per the terms of the sale. In addition, any existing estimates with Republic or Steelcraft will be honored for as long as they are valid. POs for those estimates can still be placed through Republic or Steelcraft, but we prefer you place your order directly through Next Door Company.

About Next Door Company

Founded in 1993 and with roots that go back over 100 years, Next Door Company manufactures performance-driven stainless steel doors and frames—purposefully built for the harshest environments, but with the inherent beauty of stainless steel for a wide range of applications, including:
